You can learn a lot about a company by the people it employs. You can learn even more when the company's first employee is still with it 23 years later. Packaging Express designs and manufactures custom packaging such as shipping containers, retail packaging, subscription boxes, point of purchase displays, catering trays, marketing boxes and more. Prioritizing the hiring of the best people creates a culture in which individual value is paramount and teamwork is second nature. At Packaging Express, employees are given the autonomy to experiment with new processes and embrace the spirit of entrepreneurial industry, and if they fail, the team knows the next solution is just around the corner. It helps that Packaging Express was created by Coloradans, employs Coloradans and continuously gives back to communities within Colorado. So, when customers see this first-hand, it encourages them to come back. It also helps that Packaging Express' slogan is, "When yesterday is not soon enough!"

Packaging Express is involved with, among others, Discover Goodwill of Southern Colorado, Arrupe High School, and The Children's Hospital of Southern Colorado. Loving the state you were raised in is one thing, but giving back and growing with your state epitomizes the concept of leading by example.
